DeVry University's Keller Graduate School of Management to Showcase Depth of Project Management Offerings at PMI Congress

OAKBROOK TERRACE, Ill., October 2007 – In the ever-changing world of business, project managers are seen as the leaders and stewards of an organization's success. Project managers are expected to have a solid background in broad business concepts, including human resources, marketing, scheduling, and cost analysis, and more.

As such, DeVry University's Keller Graduate School of Management is presenting its full range of project management offerings at the 2007 PMI Global Congress Show being held at the Georgia World Congress Center in Atlanta, Ga., from October 6–9, 2007.

The Keller Graduate School's project management curriculum includes options for:

- Graduate Certificate in Project Management

For students and professionals who want to specialize in project management without completing an entire degree program, a certificate option is available.

- Master's Degree in Project Management

The master's degree program enables students and professionals to develop the ability to address and solve "real-world" management problems and to exercise sound management judgment through practical application of project management concepts and skills.

- MBA with Project Management Concentration

The Keller Master of Business Administration degree program includes a mix of electives that enable students and professionals interested in project management to complete a project management concentration or integrate a graduate certificate as part of their MBA coursework.

- Corporate Training in Project Management

Keller Graduate School, in conjunction with DeVry's Center for Corporate Education, can deliver an extensive portfolio of coursework. For example, for those professionals preparing for the Project Management Professional (PMP®) exam, Keller has a comprehensive PMP review course that enhances the Project Management Body of Knowledge (PMBOK) with topics that include global project management, leadership, virtual teams and project management systems.
